

The CREDE GCP Beginner Webinar Course

What is this course?

CREDE is an accredited provider of GCP training. Our range of GCP training courses include online and face-to-face GCP refresher courses, and face-to-face classroom GCP beginner courses. We are diversifying that range to include a live webinar GCP beginner course during extenuating circumstances where face to face courses are not possible. The content of the face-to-face and webinar courses is the same.

CREDE's GCP online refresher course is not live and can be done individually in my own time on the online learning platform. Why is the CREDE GCP beginner course in a live webinar format?

Per South African guidelines, GCP beginner courses must be by an attendance course and not in a purely online format. This is to foster interaction and discussion for course participants new to GCP.

How does the course work?

There are 3 components to the course:

1. Pre-reading of course material provided by CREDE forms an essential component of the course. The material is carefully designed to provide a framework for the live component. Material includes case scenarios, links and presentations, and e-copies of important guidelines.
2. The live component takes place on the Zoom webinar platform which allows for multiple course participants to join by webcam in an interactive environment. The facilitator guides the discussions and all course participants are encouraged to engage in the real time class environment.
3. A post-course test, as required for certification, is completed within 24 hours by individual course participants. The test is online.

What technology will I need?

You will require a laptop or desktop computer with a camera e.g. webcam and audio. You will need a moderately fast and stable internet connection (at least 2 mbps up and down, preferably 4 mbps or more) and preferably uncapped data. It is preferable that each participant has access to their own device.

How long will this take?

The live component will take over one full day from 08h15 to 16h00. The day will be broken into 4 sessions of approximately 90 minutes each. Participants will be able to log off and back on again during the scheduled tea and lunch breaks. Attendance of all sessions is required.

Please allow the equivalent of at least a day's preparation with the pre-reading course material. These resources will be made available to participants at least a week before the webinar.

When do I get my GCP certificate?

Upon successful completion of the course, the facilitator will email you your GCP certificate, valid for 3 years. Certification is dependent on full attendance and engagement, pre-reading, and the post-course test.

What about cost?

The cost for the CREDE GCP beginner webinar course is R4000.00 (VAT inclusive) and includes the e-material, the facilitation as well as certification.

This sounds very good, how do I sign up?

Please ask us what the date of the next course is. Dates are also published on our website (www.crede.co.za). If you are interested, we will guide you through the registration process.
